Competency Credits

What Is Competency?

BOMI International recognizes that many professionals bring to their jobs education and experience that relates to one or more of BOMI International's courses. The Competency Program was established as a way for these individuals to apply their industry knowledge directly to BOMI International designation programs. Pursuing competency options enables learners to get a jumpstart on achieving their BOMI credentials.

How Can I Earn Competency Credit?

There are two methods of applying for competency credit.

1. Industry Competency: credit for completion of certain professional training courses or programs relating to the property and facility management industry.
2. Academic Competency: credit for completion of specific academic courses from accredited colleges or universities.

How Many Courses?

Learners can receive competency credit for a maximum of:

- 3 courses in the RPA® or FMA® designation program
- 2 courses in the SMT® designation program
- 1 of the remaining SMA® courses
- BONUS: Some industry credentials qualify you to receive credit for MORE than the maximum courses allowed. See the full list on the following pages.

The following guidelines describe specific requirements within each competency option. These requirements are subject to review, further definition, and change. All competency credit is awarded at the final discretion of BOMI International's Competency Committee. Please note that all application fees are nonrefundable.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to read the descriptions of the BOMI International courses for which they wish to receive credit. BOMI International course descriptions can be found at www.bomi.org.

If you have any questions, contact BOMI's Education Coordinator team at 1.800.235.BOMI (2664).
